BIO:

Neither side of my brain has ever really won out. I'm a creative capable of coming up with compelling conceptual ideas as much as a logically driven computer nerd who has spent far more time than is healthy becoming proficient in everything from web and print design to branding, internet marketing and photography.

More recently, I have dedicated much of my time to establishing a career in the video and film world, having directed, written, produced and edited everything from music promos to corporate shoots and short films.

WHAT I WANT:

To fulfil my need to be creative with people who are as passionate about aesthetic, story, good design and technology as much as I am.

SOME THINGS ABOUT ME:

My favourite beer is Asahi. My Chinese nickname is Ho Dor Wong Yip. On any given evening, you will find me in a dingy bar taking pictures of live bands you've never heard of (but maybe will one day). I play more table tennis than a grown man really should. For 9 months, I was a body double for Draco Malfoy in 'Harry Potter and the Half Blood Prince'.
